

The Centre for Fisheries and Aquaculture Management and Economics (FAME); and the Nordic Network in Resource and Fisheries Economics and Management (NorFame) is arranging:

Workshop on:

Biodiversity: Management, Economics and the Marine view

11th – 13th June 2004 University of Southern Denmark- Esbjerg, Denmark

Guest lectures

Prof. Ragnar Arnason, University of Iceland, Iceland

Prof. Erwin Bulte, Department of Economics, Tilburg University, Netherlands

Prof. Rögnvaldur Hannesson, Norwegian School of Economics & Business Administration, Bergen, Norway

Prof. Veijo Kaitala, University of Helsinki, Finland

Background

What is the biological meaning and functioning of biodiversity? What is the economical value of biodiversity? What happens under new fisheries management regimes? Can we manage biodiversity? How does climate change or environmental change affect the management of marine fisheries resources?

Understanding of biodiversity has become one of the most important contemporary problems in science and policy making. The purpose of the workshop is to explore the main contemporary themes around the biodiversity issue. Several new topics and approaches will be discussed.

Participation

The workshop is free of charge for anyone wishing to participate. Travel and Accommodation expenses are covered for a limited number of participants from the Nordic and Baltic countries by a grant from NorFa. Please notify us when you enroll.

Oral presentations of papers and poster presentations are possible and encouraged, please notify fame@sam.sdu.dk

Deadline for enrolment is 7th May 2004.
